sudo: Superuser "do." It is used to execute a command with administrative or superuser privileges.

apt: Advanced Package Tool. It is a package management system used by Debian and Debian-based distributions.

install: The command used to install new packages.

upgrade This is a command used with apt-get to upgrade installed packages. When you run apt-get upgrade, it downloads and installs the latest versions of all currently installed packages on your system.

-y The -y is like saying, "Yes, go ahead!" It tells the magic tool to answer "Yes" to any questions it might ask during the installation, so you don't have to type "Yes" manually.

podman --version
```

OUTPUT

podman version 3.4.2

Step 2:-

sudo apt install python3-pip

The command sudo apt install python3-pip is used to install the Python package manager called pip for Python 3.x. Let's break down what this command does

Step 19:- Go to main terminal

cd
```

```
locust -f locustfile.py

The command locust -f locustfile.py is used to run performance tests using Locust, which is an open-source load testing tool. Let's break down the command

Step 20:-

podman run -itd --name loadtesting -p 8089:8089 -v <Directory> :/mnt/locust localhost/loadtest:v1 -f /mnt/locust/locustfile.py

The command podman run -itd --name loadtesting -p 8089:8089 -v /mnt/locust localhost/loadtest:v1 -f /mnt/locust/locustfile.py is used to run a containerized instance of a load testing tool using Podman. Let's break down the command podman run: This command is used to run a container.

-itd: These are options specifying how the container should run:

-i: Keep STDIN open even if not attached. -t: Allocate a pseudo-TTY. -d: --name loadtesting: Assigns the name "loadtesting" to the running container.

-p 8089:8089: Maps port 8089 from the host to port 8089 in the container. This allows you to access Locust's web interface on the host machine.

-v /mnt/locust: Mounts a volume from the host machine to the container. Replace with the actual path to the directory you want to mount. This is often used to share files between the host and the container.

localhost/loadtest:v1: Specifies the Docker image to use for the container. In this case, it's loadtest:v1 from the localhost registry.

-f /mnt/locust/locustfile.py: Specifies the path to the Locustfile within the mounted volume. This file contains the Locust test script.

m@k:~$ m@k:~$ podman run -itd --name loadtesting -p 8089:8089 -v /home/m:/mnt/locust
localhost/loadtest:v1 -f /mnt/locust/locustfile.py

```

Step 21:-

```
podman ps
```

The podman ps command is used to list running containers and provide information about them.

m@k:~$ m@k:~$ podman ps CONTAINER ID IMAGE COMMAND CREATED STATUS PORTS NAMES m@k:~$ m@k:~$

```
locust -f locustfile.py

The command locust -f locustfile.py is used to run performance tests using Locust, which is an open-source load testing tool. Let's break down the command locust: This is the command to start Locust.

-f locustfile.py: The -f flag is used to specify the path to the Locust test script (locustfile.py) that contains the user-defined tasks and scenarios for the load test.

Step 22:-

Go to the browser type localhost:8089*

Step 23:-

```
podman pod create --name timescale --publish 5432:5432 --publish 3000:3000
```

```
m@k:~$ m@k:~$ podman pod create --name timescale --publish 5432:5432 --publish 3000:3000

podman command-line tool is used to manage pods on your system.

pod subcommand indicates that you are working with pods, rather than individual containers.

create subcommand is used to create a new pod.

--name timescale sets the name of the new pod to "timescale". This is a user-defined label that can be used to refer to the pod in subsequent commands.

--publish 5432:5432 maps port 5432 on the host system to port 5432 within the pod. This enables external services to communicate with a PostgreSQL database that may be running inside the pod.

--publish 3000:3000 maps port 3000 on the host system to port 3000 within the pod. This enables external services to communicate with a Grafana application that may be running inside the pod.

podman pod ps
```

OUTPUT

m@k:~$ podman pod ps POD ID NAME STATUS CREATED INFRA ID # OF CONTAINERS d3cfa7c631da timescale Created 3 minutes ago dbba4a2063c4 1 m@k:~$ m@k:~$

podman pod ps command is used to list the pods currently running on your system when you're using Podman, which is a container management tool similar to Docker.
